

An unfinished impressive project teaches you less than a finished simple one.

- 1 Finishing forces the boring parts: errors, edge cases, deployment.
- 2 Those boring parts are exactly what interviews ask about.
- 3 A perfect half-project has no boring parts, so it teaches nothing.

REMEMBER THIS

Scope down until you can finish this week. Then do it again.