

Ship the smallest useful thing

Notebook versus something someone used

Your first AI project should do one task for one person — and actually run.

- 1 A tutorial notebook proves you can follow steps. Nothing more.
- 2 Something deployed, that another person used, proves you can finish.
- 3 Write down honestly what it does badly. Almost nobody does this.

REMEMBER

That honest limitations note is the strongest thing in an AI portfolio.

